

Parts of a Citation

In the course of your research, keep track of the sources you've used. Regardless of the citation style guide (MLA, APA, etc.) that you follow for list of works cited, all citations are made up of several distinct parts.

SOURCE TYPE

CITATION PARTS

Book

Author      Title of Book
Roskill, Mark. The Letters of Vincent Van Gogh.
New York: Simon & Schuster, 1997.
City & Publisher      Date of Publication

Article from a print periodical

Author      Article Title      Journal Title      Date of Publication
Trungpa, Chögyam. Conquering Fear. Shambala Sun. 10 (4). 26. March 2002.

Source from a webpage

Author      Title of Source
Kushi, Gabriele F. The Twin Cities Green Guide. Retrieved February 23, 2008
Diet For a Healthy and Peaceful World.
Title of Article      URL (Web address)      Date Accessed <http://www.thegreenguide.org/article/food/macro>

Article from an online journal

Author      Title of Article      Journal Title      Database Name & ID
Danneman J. Meditation fulfils a need not met by conventional western medicine...
Journal Date      'Meditation matters'. Nursing Standard,
Volume      6/13/2007; 21 (40): 32 ISSN: 0029-6570 CINAHL AN# 2009612060.
Issue      Anoka Ramsey Community College Library Coon Rapids. 23 February 2008.
No.      Library where database was accessed      Date accessed